THURSDAY NOVEMBER 22, 1900

Chancellor von Bülow gives to the German Reichstag the position of the German government respecting affairs in China. The relations of Germany to China are of a positive character. There is no milk and water policy in the one, which becomes the position of a great power in the affairs of the world. Demands made on China are set forth in firm and becoming terms which have the ring—No foolhardiness at this time or later. Satisfaction must be made by the government of China for damage sustained by German interests in the late uprising, and adequate punishment must be inflicted upon those who were engaged and leaders in the late war on foreign interests in that country.

The government takes a position that Germany has not anything to gain from a partition of the Chinese empire. It favors its integrity, present and future, subject to such reforms as the powers demand in the interest of present and future good government for the protection of foreign commerce and the lives and property of resident foreigners. German rights in China will not be surrendered or permitted in any way to be interfered with by China, or by powers who may have similar or conflicting claims in or upon the country.

The information given upon the government's relations in China contains in its form and in its manner an assurance given by other powers that the demands made on China and the relation of the German government to these demands will be sustained, which includes the work of reorganization and reform in the government of the Chinese empire. The influence of England upon the position taken by the German government can be seen without effort by those who are familiar with the history of the contention in and out of China. The position of England in opposition to any division of the empire, from the beginning of the trouble in China, is accepted by Germany, and it appears in the policy of government to be in opposition to German interests to make a division.

In consideration of Germany's yielding to the demand of England in that particular, the claims of Germany upon China are admitted and will be sustained by the British government. While negotiations upon these matters were under consideration the claims of Germany in China were in abeyance. There was not anything said about Germany's claims during the summer, but they are now communicated officially to the Reichstag, with an assurance that contains evidence of a settlement, and Germany will hold all it claimed preceding the rebellion by the Empress Dowager and the Boxers.

It had the appearance in late September that Russia had overreached Europe in diplomacy when it withdrew from further connection with the powers in the settlement of affairs in China. It was then believed by the JOURNAL that the eagle would not follow the hawk to Manchuria and make it drop its prey, but a short time thereafter there was published a convention between Great Britain and Germany which read between the lines laws of in China, which reading it seems was intended as notice to Russia and France respecting the work of Russia in Manchuria.

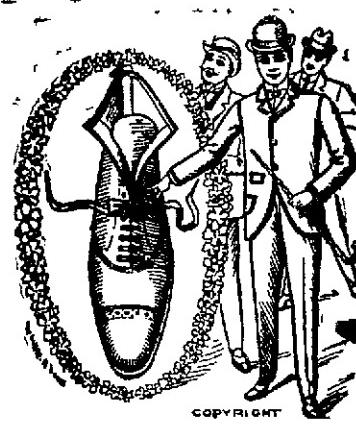

The information just given to the world through the Reichstag by Von Bülow clearly shows the real position of diplomatic business respecting the future of China at the time when Russia withdrew from further connection with other powers in Chinese matters. At the time of the withdrawal by Russia from further participation with the powers, future conditions respecting the integrity of the old empire had been agreed upon between England and Germany and the future rights of each had been arranged to the satisfaction of the parties to the convention which had the effect to relieve Russia from any additional work in matters of State respecting the future of the Chinese empire.

What position has been taken by Russia regarding its claim upon Manchuria and the rights it was seeking to enforce in Korea against Japan does not appear upon the treatise board of nations. There may be a future in some form to these claims, but whatever it is, or may be does not appear from anything there has been made public. It will be unusual in the arrangement of affairs including so much to the future of Russia if that power has retired from the struggle with its thumb to its mouth.

It is plain the United States has been playing to support the hands held in the game by England and Germany which may explain the hobnobbing by the Prince of Wales and Minister Chouteau when William of Germany was in England to visit his grandmother. When the work of nations is taken in review it will be seen that it is carried forward very much as two farmers would conduct a horse trade, the chief difference being in its surroundings.

The Lottery Scheme—A Pitfall for the Youth of the State.

Ed. White, one of Reno's prominent sporting men, has come out flat-footed against the proposed lottery bill.

Mr. White informed a JOURNAL reporter yesterday that he would fight the measure in the legislature and would oppose it at the special election, if the issue comes before the people.

The first reason for his opposition to the bill is a purely selfish one. In his opinion: "The establishment of a State lottery would injure legitimate gambling. The fourteen games now running in this city pay a high license and are conducted in a fair, honest manner. The percentage is small and fixed. People know what they are running against when they are foolish enough to buy faro chips or buck the roulette game; but the lottery, in my opinion, is a delusion and a snare. It has no fixed percentage and its profits are enormous."

"But very few people are on the inside of the workings of a lottery.
They think they have a better chance for their money than they have. The result is that if a lottery is established here it would be patronized to the detriment of the small percentage games, many of which would be compelled to close."

"The gambling house proprietors in this city do not permit minors or women to play. With lottery it is different. Wives and daughters of workingmen would buy lottery tickets.
They would be sold and purchased by school children, and the State would become utterly corrupt. Vice, which is present in confined to men of maturity years, would spread through every sex and age."

"Another side of the lottery question is that the State would politically fall into the hands of the lottery gang.
They would elect officers and control patronage. The 'rotten borough' of the past would be nothing to the corrupt commonwealth of the future."

The Thanksgiving Game.

Thursday of next week, Thanksgiving Day, there will be played upon the University gridiron the football game of the season. The 6 to 0 skirmish with Stanford will not be in it for close score and science.

Perry of the Varsity has been selected as coach and B. Evans as Captain.
The lineup will probably be made up from the following:

E. H. and J. Chisholm, Sellers (formerly half-back for Ohio Varsity), J.
Evans, Mapes, N. Perry, Kormayer, Hewitt, Leonard and Jacobs.

The Varsity team will be about the same that went against the California elevyans.

They Struck It Rich.

It was a grand thing for this community that such an enterprising firm as S. J. Hodgkinson secured the agency for Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, the wonderful remedy that has startled the world by its marvelous cures. The favor of enthusiasm over it has boomed their business, as the demand for it is immense. They give free trial bottles to sufferers, and positively guarantee it to cure Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma, Croup, and all Throat and Lung Troubles. A trial proves its merit. Price 50cts. and $100 Agent.

Choice Flowers.

Having secured the agency for M.
H. Ebel, the florist, who has the largest nursery on the Pacific coast, I am now prepared to take orders for floral designs for funerals, weddings, etc. Sacramento prices. A. B. MANHEIM.

LITTLE LOCAL
BREVITIES

Brief for Separate

Trains were late yesterday on account of the heavy snowfall.

A new snow plow arrived yesterday for use on the N.-C.-O.

John Orsene of the Virginia Enterprise has become a happy pa.

Trainmen on the N.-C.-O. report thirteen inches of snow at the northern end of the line.

A bill to reincorporate Reno will come before the next Legislature.
How do you stand in the matter?

The "For Her Sake" company carries all its own scenery. The advance sale is quite flattering. Secure your seats before all the choice ones are taken.

H. Riter is fitting up the old lodge room in the Washos brewery. It will be ready for occupancy by the first of the month for lodges, dances or clubs.

The ladies of the guild are receiving a number of orders for pastry. They will give a sale in the O'Connor building the afternoon and evening before Thanksgiving.

On account of muddy streets cyclists have been taking the sidewalks for the past day or two. No accidents have been reported and the officers wink at the offenders.

Fitzgerald is Having Fits.

John Fitzgerald, proprietor of the Palace hotel, was the maddest man in town yesterday. He told Alderman Hymer in unmistakable language that he was hot, who he was hot at, why he was hot, and the vigorous expletives he used were proof of the earnestness of his convictions.

Nature is partly to blame for Fitzgerald getting wrathful, and the town board are accomplices in the offense.

This is the trouble: The Palace hotel corner is just a trifle higher than some of the other properties along the Row. When the rains descend, water tries to run around the Palace hotel, but gravity forbids, hence it seeks and finds—Fitzgerald's cellar.

The hotel has prayed, expostlated and demanded that the city fathers dig a drainage sewer and dispose of their storm water, but they hearken not to Fitzgerald's entreaties.

Now, as we said before, John is mad.
Having damned the commissioners he will proceed to damn his neighbors.
When the next storm occurs you will see an embankment thrown across the gutter and the water kept out of Mr.
Fitzgerald's cellar.

He pays $14.14 taxes a year and $270 license a month and wants either a sewer or a lawsuit. Who can blame him?

A Sensational Case.

Sunday night knock-out drops were administered to a young girl in this city. The case was kept from the public as long as possible, but has now become generally noticed about.

The opiate was administered with criminal intent, but too heavy a dose was given and the stool passed from town when the girl lost consciousness, believing he had committed murder.

Although made very ill, she has recovered.

Her assailant is in hiding in the home of a friend in Wadsworth. The case is, or should be, under consideration by the "S.O.I."

Astounded The Editor.

Editor S. A. Brown, of the Bennettville, S. C., was once immensely surprised. "Through long suffering from Dyspepsia," he writes, "my wife was greatly run down. She had no strength or vigor and suffered great distress from her stomach, but she tried Electric Bitters which helped her at once, and, after using four bottles, she is es-tremely well, can eat anything. It's a grand tonic, and its gentle laxative qualities are splendid for torpid liver."

For indigestion, loss of Appetite, Stomach and Liver troubles it's a positive, guaranteed cure. Only 50 cents a bottle.
